

Lecti- o Libri Sa-pi- enti- æ. Va-ni autem sunt omnes hómi-nes, in qui-bus non subest sci- énti- a De- i:

et de his, quæ vi-déntur bona, non pot-u- é-runt intel-lí-ge-re e-um, qui est, neque opé-ri-bus attendéntes agno-vé-runt quis esset árti-fex: sed aut ignem, aut spí-ri-tum, aut ci-tá-tum á- e-rem, aut gy-rum stel-lá-rum, aut ními- am aquam, aut so-lem et lunam, rectó-res orbis terrá-rum de- os pu-ta-vé-runt. Quo-rum si spé-ci- e de-lectá-ti, de- os pu-ta-vé-runt: sci- ant quanto his domi-ná-tor e- ó-rum spe-ci- ó-si- or est: spe-ci- é- i e-nim ge-ne-rá-tor hæc ómni- a constí-tu- it. Aut si virtú-tem et ópe-ra e- ó-rum mi-rá-ti sunt, intél-li-gant ab il-lis quón-i- am qui hæc fe-cit, fórti- or est il-lis: a magni-tú-di-ne e-nim spe-ci- é- i et cre- a-tú-ræ cognosci-bí-li-ter pót-e-rit cre- á-tor ho-rum vi-dé-ri. Sed tamen adhuc in his mi-nor est que-ré-la. Et hi e-nim fortásse errant, De- um quæ-réntes, et vo-léntes inve-ní-re. Et-e-nim cum in opé-ri-bus il-lí- us converséntur, inquí-runt: et per-su- á-sum ha-bent quón-i- am bona sunt quæ vi-déntur. I-te-rum autem nec his de-bet ignósci. Si e-nim tantum pot-u- é-runt sci-re, ut possent æstimá-re sá-cu-lum: quómodo hu-jus Dómi-num non fá-cí-li- us inve-né-runt?

S equenti- a Sancti E-vange-li- i se-cundum Matthæ-um. Si autem ó-cu-lus tu-us fú-e-rit nequam, to-tum corpus tu-um te-nebró-sum e-rit. Si ergo lumen, quod in te est, té-nebræ sunt: ipsæ té-nebræ quantæ e-runt?

Nemo pot-est du-óbus dómi-nis serví-re: aut e-nim unum ó-di-o ha-bé-bit, et álte-rum dí-li-get: aut unum sus-ti-né-bit, et álte-rum contémnet. Non pot-éstis De-o serví-re et mammónæ. Id-e-o di-co vo-bis, ne sol-lí-ci-ti si-tis á-nimæ vestræ quid mandu-cé-tis, neque córpo-ri vestro quid indu-á-mi-ni. Nonne á-nima plus est quam esca, et corpus plus quam vestiméntum? Respí-ci-te vo-la-tí-li-a cæ-li, quón-i-am non se-runt, neque me-tunt, neque cóngre-gant in hórre-a: et Pa-ter vester cæ-léstis pascit il-la. Nonne vos ma-gis plu-ris estis il-lis?

Quis autem vestrum có-gi-tans pot-est adjí-ce-re ad sta-tú-ram su-am cú-bi-tum unum?